DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is not clear what structure is claimed by the limitation "a treatment device of an inspection device" in claim 1. For the purpose of the application of prior art claim 1 is interpreted to read "wherein an inspection device and a linear conveyor for the container are arranged above the collecting opening."

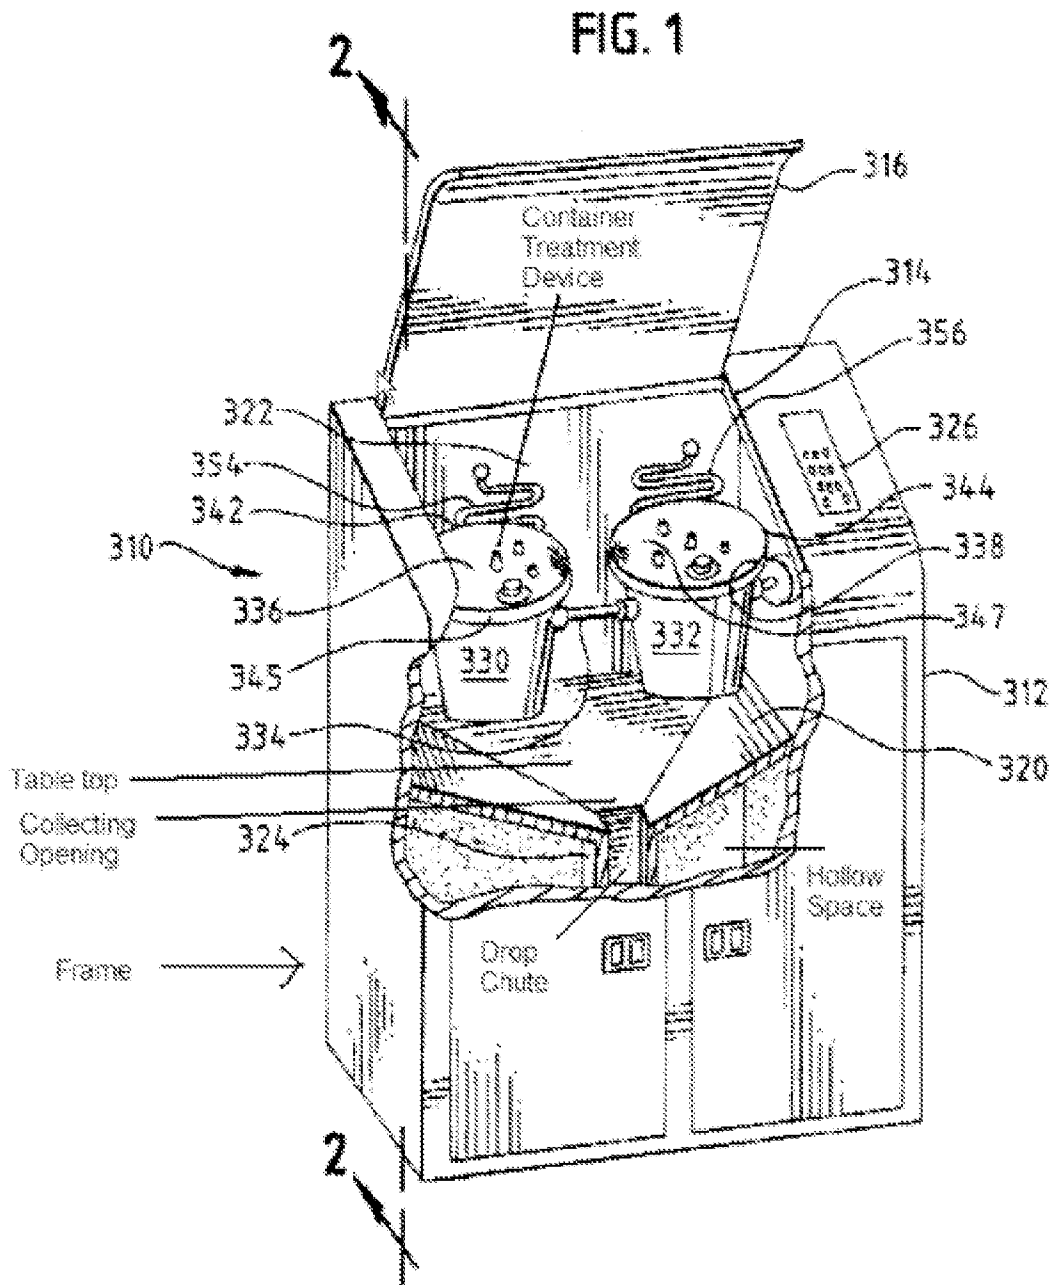

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dunn (US Patent 6,263,887 B1) in view of Halbo (US Patent 6,012,344) and Kitterman et al (US Patent 3,773,058).

In Re claim 1 with reference to Figure 1 above Dunn discloses a container treatment machine comprising: a frame, a table top and a collecting opening wherein the areas of said table top connected to the opening are inclined with falling slop to the collecting opening.

Dunn doesn't disclose an inspection device or a linear conveyor.

With reference to Figure 1 Halbo discloses an inspection machine for containers comprising an inspection device (11a) which operates to inspect containers for faults.

With reference to Figure 3 Kitterman discloses a container cleaning machine which uses a conveyor (54) arranged above a waste chute (120) to provide containers to be cleaned.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the Dunn apparatus by providing an inspection device to inspect containers for faults, and furthermore, to provide a conveyor, as taught by Kitterman, supply the apparatus with containers.

In Re claim 2 with reference to Figure 1 above Dunn discloses a drop chute connected to the collecting opening.

In Re claim 3 above with reference to Figure 1 above Dunn discloses a collecting opening having a rectangular shape and being centrally located in a rectangular table top.

In Re claims 4 and 5 with reference to Figure 1 above Dunn discloses a ring shaped hollow space between the drop chute and the outside walls of the frame. Statements of intended use have been considered and determined not to limit the structure of the invention beyond the scope of the prior art: the ring shaped space in the Dunn apparatus could be used to house control elements.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
